Tolerance

“The highest result of education is tolerance.” – Helen Keller

What does tolerance look like?

People who show tolerance:

- Accept themselves and others
- Understand that we are all different
- Listen to other people's opinions and beliefs

People who show tolerance realise:

- Everyone's opinions and beliefs are valuable
- We are all different and nobody is more important than everybody else
- We must accept ourselves and others

People show tolerance by:

- Taking an interest in other's opinions and beliefs
- Being non-judgemental and open-minded
- Understanding each other's differences
